Amtrak® ICE TRAIN TIMETABLE

Effective October 5 to December 17, 1993
New York-Philadelphia-Washington

Experience the hottest thing on rails!

ICE Train is the high-speed, high-tech InterCityExpress, now in service across Germany. One ICE Train is currently on a six-month visit to the United States for testing and demonstration on the Amtrak system.

October through December, Amtrak will demonstrate the ICE Train in scheduled Metroliner Service as part of our planning process to design the next generation of Metroliner high-speed trains. This new fleet of trains will be manufactured in the United States by 1997 for expanded Metroliner Service between Washington, New York and Boston.

Join us on board the ICE Train to experience the state-of-the-art in high-speed rail technology and luxury. Although it will follow normal Metroliner Service schedules during this demonstration, the train will travel at speeds up to 135 mph. And the ICE Train will introduce you to a variety of exciting new amenities.
