INDEX TO PUBLIC BUILDINGS AND PLACES OF HISTORICAL AND RECREATIONAL INTEREST

(Certain deletions have been made in this edition of the map and in the text thereof at the suggestion of the U. S. Army authorities.)

Opposite each of the places listed in this index there is shown the most direct route to reach it from the nearest rapid transit station. The dark blue lines on the face of the map show the rapid transit lines.

The letters and figures in parentheses at the left indicate the map squares within which the places named are located.

Places located within the center of Boston, shown enlarged in the insert at the lower left corner of map, are indexed by the map lines running through this insert.

Immediately below is shown the order of stations on each of the rapid transit lines and the map square within which each station is located.

FIRST in Safety

The El's record of safety awards over the years is unequalled by any other street railway.

1915
Won the first Anthony N. Brady Memorial Medal for safe operation. (Competition suspended from 1917 to 1925)

1929
Won Brady Medal for the second time

1931
Won Brady Medal for the third time

1932
Won Brady Medal for the fourth time and, by a special ruling of the Committee, debarred from next three competitions.

1936
Won Brady Medal for the fifth time, and debarred from next five competitions.

1942
Won American Transit Safety Award and, because of its many awards, now debarred from further competition.

● The Boston Elevated Railway won the first Brady Medal. It is first in the number of national awards won — 6 as compared with a maximum of 2 for any other street railway. Beginning in 1931, it has won every competition for which it was eligible.

ROUTE MAP
Sixth Edition

Revised and corrected, this system route map is presented to help the riding public.

Additional copies may be obtained at: the Information Booth, Park Street Subway Station; the railway's stations; the Information Desk in the lobby, 7th floor, Park Square Building, Boston; or by writing to Room 714, same building.

The railway aims to furnish satisfactory service. Any suggestions are welcomed by the management.
