Although tickets may be purchased on the train, a 25¢ surcharge is added to on-train purchases when tickets are available at the boarding station.

Below is a list of four types of tickets available.

- Monthly Pass – Monthly passes allow patrons unlimited travel within their pass category. Each pass is marked with the month it is valid and the number of zones that may be traveled. Passholders may transfer free to all MBTA rapid transit and bus lines and may ride free with one guest on Sundays.

Passholders are entitled to auto insurance discounts and many other money saving benefits.

Commuter rail passes go on sale the 20th of each month. (Passes are also available at Washington St. Station during last four and first two working days of the month.)

- One-Way Fares – One-way fares are issued to passengers age 12 and over. (Children age 5–11 travel for half-fare, while those under five ride for free.) Tickets are good for one trip to or from Boston and are valid for one year.
- Twelve-Ride Fares – The twelve-ride ticket is issued to passengers age 12 and over. The price is based on the zone where the boarding takes place and tickets are valid for sixty (60) days.
- Intermediate Fare – A forty-six ride intermediate ticket is issued to patrons 12 and older who travel between any two zones but not to or from Boston. The cost of the book is based on the number of zones traveled and it is valid for the month issued.
